

THE JCC STEPHEN GOTTLIEB
MUSIC FESTIVAL

INVITES YOU TO
AN EVENING WITH DON WAS

Detroit's own Don Was first emerged as half of the R&B duo Was (Not Was). He became one of the most prolific producers in contemporary music, working with Bob Dylan, the Rolling Stones, Bob Seger, the B-52s and many more.

Hosted by award-winning music journalist Gary Graff, "An Evening with Don Was" will feature a discussion focusing on the producer's extraordinary career, from his beginnings in Oak Park to the pinnacle of the music industry today, along with a musical performance that celebrates the brilliant career of Don Was.
